

Dread

For every kiss I swallow I dry another tear
You don't want my love
And it brings me down I fear

I cherish that memory before I fall asleep
I nourish from melodies
You put inside of me

For every tear I swallow I come up with a new line
No you don't want my love
You don't want any of mine

In the meantime (please don't be long)

Wish I had the guts ask you why you never look me in the eye no more - but I don't Wish I had the guts to blame you for sparing your smiles as if they were made of gold - but I don't no yet I don't

So in the meantime I'll formulate those „Why's“ on my mind Whilst waiting for the day when feelings have died
And then I'll make my confession In shape of a rose and put it on the coffin of our souls

Wish I had the guts to save Save you and your and your twisted soul - but I don't Wish I had the guts to lead you Lead you out of your hole Self chosen hole
You call it your home - but I don't.

So in the meantime I'll chase rainbows and save that halo of mine for the day when you'll come out of your hole And I pray for saint change to not be long Oh please don't be long `cause I just might lose my hope in the meantime so please don't be long cause I just might let go before you come

so please don't be long.

The Chill

I'm the cruiser on the ocean of our town and the breeze is in my head, turns me around you're an iceberg but I can see but the tip

I have underestimated all the chill, all the chill

I am breaking up the ice with every move I am coarse and cannot feel the way you do you're a waking call and death is in your sound I'm the dreamer watching you fall off our cloud, our cloud and it brings me down.

The truth

Truth is a blind mate held my hand and then wretched it came my way and then wretched it I walked away when i felt it

Time is a black sea when I fall the waves catch me when it rains... and rain is a close friend when it falls we share everything

„Have a sip, have a sip of it share your black, share your black with me.“

but I am a traitor, left my safe just to say „I've been there“ blamed my mate for just standing there walked away when I felt it.